RIVERDALE NURSERIES
and GARDENS, INC.
WEST SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

QUALITY trees and plants—the best that can be grown—good service and guaranteed satisfaction have made us a host of friends in past years, and we shall always rely on these principles to hold your continued confidence, and to win new customers.

Our trees and plants are shipped all over New England, but especially do we grow those varieties which are particularly adapted to this Connecticut Valley Section, and which therefore you can count on doing best in your gardens.

This catalogue briefly describes and lists the major part of our stock of Hardy Ornamental Trees and Plants, Fruit Trees and Plants, Hardy Perennial and Annual Flower Plants. Vegetable Plants of the choicest varieties are also grown and will be ready during the planting season.

You are cordially invited to visit us. There is plenty of parking space and you will always find good Trees and Plants and much to interest you at The Riverdale Nurseries and Gardens.

Faithfully yours,
WM. H. WOLFF,
Treasurer and Manager

HARDY GARDEN PERENNIALS

Flowers That Bloom Year after Year

Hardy flowering perennials are becoming more popular with garden enthusiasts each year. The chief reason for this is that good old-fashioned favorites like the Peony, Gaillardia, Phlox, Columbine, Delphinium, and a hundred others, with ordinary care, persist and grow stronger each year and furnish regularly in season their wealth of wonderful bloom.

New and improved varieties are constantly being developed and this also adds to the charm of this class of plants. Most of this stock is field-grown for early Spring or Fall planting. Varieties marked thus * are also grown in pots so that they can be moved to your garden at any season without wilting.

HARDY SHRUBS

Good shrubbery finds many uses about the home and other buildings. Shrubs are ideal where the object is to provide a Summer screen or to give privacy to the garden. They are also used for foundation planting about the home and other buildings. They furnish a wonderful array of blossoms and even in Winter their bright-colored fruits and stems lend variety and cheerfulness to the scene.

PEAR TREES

Pear trees are easy to grow, bear regularly and heavily and do not require high cultivation. To bring out the quality and flavor Pears should be picked when mature and ripened in a cool, dark place. The following are proving the best varieties for New England:

Clapp's Favorite. Ripe early September.
Bartlett. Ripe September-October.
Seckel. Ripe September-October.
Anjou. Ripe September-October.
Beurre's Bosc. Ripe November-December.
Fine, 2-yr., 5-7 ft. trees, each $1.25, doz. $12.00.

QUINCE TREES

Fine, 2-3 yr. trees, 4-5 ft., varieties Orange and Champion, each $1.25, doz. $12.00.

PEACH TREES

Peaches are a comparatively certain crop in central and southern New England. Trees commence bearing usually at 3 years from planting and good crops on 4-year to 10-year trees vary from 6 to 10, 14-quart baskets each season.

BEST WHITE FLESHED PEACHES

St. Regis. Everbearing. Hardy and popular. Doz. $1.00, 100 $5.00.

STRAWBERRY PLANTS

There is no crop which will return such a wealth of fruit over so long a period as the modern Strawberry. A row or two should be grown in every garden where space allows. Strawberries are never so good as when picked fresh from the vines with the dew still on them.

Howard 17. You will go a long way to beat "Howard 17." We believe it is the one best Summer fruiting variety ever introduced for this section. Good plants.

Doz. 50c., 100 $2.00

Lucky Strike. This is by far the best everbearing Strawberry. Good plants. Doz. $1.00.

ASPARAGUS, Roots or Crowns

MARY WASHINGTON

Mary Washington is the tenderest, most delicious, and best yielding variety of Asparagus for the home garden. It is the only kind planted today by the more progressive market gardeners. Every home garden should have a row or two of this delicious and healthful early Spring vegetable. Once planted, it grows readily and yields bountifully each Spring for many years and the green lacelike foliage in Summer is quite decorative. One or more rows or a bed are quite effective as a garden border or background.

Selected, 1-yr. roots, 50 for $1.35, 100 for $2.50.
Very large, 2- and 3-yr. roots for quicker results,

50 for $2.25, 100 for $4.00
